Kolkata, 3rd November 2017: The third edition of Apeejay Bangla Sahitya Utsob 2017 (ABSU), India's pioneer Bangla Literary Festival was inaugurated today at Apeejay House Lawns near the 100 year old heritage Oxford Bookstore on Park Street, in the distinguished presence of eminent writers Shankha Ghosh, Sanjib Chattopadhyay and Imdadul Haq Milon, renowned novelist from Bangladesh.

The Utsob began with a keynote address by Sanjib Chattopadhyay on 'Bangla sahitya'er haal haquiqat' followed by the announcement of shortlist for Big Little Book Award 2017 instituted by the Parag initiative of Tata Trusts to recognise and honour significant contribution of regional authors and illustrators to children's literature. The evening concluded by a musical performance from 'Naiyyor' setting the ambience for the next two stellar literary day.

Created by Oxford Bookstores in association with Patra Bharati, Apeejay Bangla Sahitya Utsob will be held in Kolkata at Apeejay House Lawns on Park Street on 3-5 Nov from 12 noon onwards. The Utsob will be attended by eminent authors, renowned film directors, poets and musicians covering all the facets of Bangla literature.

Speaking to reporters during the Utsob, Swagat Sengupta, CEO Oxford Bookstores & Festival Director said, "Apeejay Bangla Sahitya Utsob is in its third year after having firmly established itself in the global map of Bangla literature with its first two editions. The response and enthusiasm in the last two years have made us believe that our initial goal of passing on the literature and cultural legacy to the younger generation is on course to getting achieved. The exponential growth of the Utsob in terms of its length and categories of events in its every edition is testimony to this positive outlook. We value our partnership with Patra Bharati which is now in its third year. Their continuous endeavour to expand the reach of Bangla Literature through this pioneering initiative is truly inspiring. We also feel we have been able to help people rediscover the pleasure of stories, books, reading, understand the true value of a book with our various similar initiatives and created a platform for people to engage and discuss different literary and cultural ideas. This year we have included a unique photography competition to showcase the book for love and two music events to bring forth a new flavour to the Utsob. For youth we have increased our focus on competitive activities and the initial response of these activities have been very encouraging and engaging. We look forward to seeing all the Bangla lovers from all over the state come to the festival and make it truly memorable. ”

Present at the occasion Mr. Tridib Kumar Chattopadhyay, Managing Director, Patra Bharati Group of Publications said, “Our city of joy Kolkata has owned the largest attended book fair of the world, International Kolkata Book Fair since last 42 years. We also conduct a number of popular literature festivals mainly based on English language. But it is a matter of regret that although we are carrying the great legacy of masters like Rabindranath Tagore, Bankim Chandra, Sarat Chandra, Bibhuti Bhushan, Manik, Sukumar, Abanindranath, Satyajit and the rich intellectual heritage, Kolkata did not have any exclusive Bangla Literature Festival before 2015. In 2015 a bridge was built between the heritage store Oxford Bookstore and Patra Bharati Group of Publications, a new era began with the inception of Apeejay Bangla Sahityo Utsob.

We are delighted to inform all of our friends of media that this joint venture is now become a fixed destination for all the Bangla book lovers of our city. Due to the unexpected popularity of this Sahityo Utsob, the first year ABSU was held in a single day, in 2016 it happened in 2 days and this year we are compelled to spread the festival for 3 days — 3,4 & 5 November 2017. And also to accommodate more & more listeners, the venue has been shifted from inside the bookstore to the nearby Apeejay Lawn. We are confident that this unique festival of Bangla language and literature will attain great heights this year”
